Reconstruction

We republish from the Oregon State Journal the following letters on reconstruction. They were written by a prominent citizen of Oregon at the request of one of the most distinguished public men of the United States and will be found worthy of attentive perusal.

NUMBER ONE.

To Hon. [illegible], Dear Sir:—The Constitution of the United States has been rightly called "The greatest monument of human wisdom." It has secured [illegible] glorious liberty and the right of self government to a great nation, and though constrained by the necessity of harmonizing conflicting opinions, and reconciling opposite interests the convention devised machinery to effect these great objects, that has stood the test of nearly eighty years—a period in which man has progressed more mentally and physically than in many centuries of any prior epoch.

It is therefore no disparagement to the wisdom and patriotism of its immortal framers if after the people to be governed by the Constitution have increased ten fold and spread themselves from ocean to ocean, and the interests it was to foster have grown and diversified in far greater proportions, that under the severe strain of a bloody civil war, some parts of its machinery have proved defective, and others obsolete by the changes wrought by it.

As the altered condition of the nation requires some provisions to be added and some withdrawn from the Constitution, I think the work could be best done by a Convention. The revision of a Convention would be more thorough and complete—more to the satisfaction of the people who are to live under it, and bring about the needed changes sooner and more certain than the present mode of amendment.

There always seemed to me some discrepancy between the principles and practice of our ancestors in regard to the rights of the people. While they claim for them the right to choose their own form of government and to alter or abolish it at pleasure, they seem greatly to distrust the honesty or ability of the people to exercise the right and place as many obstacles between them and their Constitution of Government, as possible, and by trying to bind posterity with perpetual or irrepealable "compacts" seem to have lost sight of the principles of self government itself. If the right to choose a form of government was the right of our ancestors, it is ours, and will descend to posterity, and anything we may do to take away that right will be impotent.

If we wish to perpetuate the principles of self government our institutions should as nearly as possible accord with that idea, and the clearly expressed wish of the majority should change it as well as any other law, and to require the concurrence of two thirds or three fourths of the people to amend, will more frequently perpetuate an evil, than conserve a good. The only difference I would make between an organic and a statute law would be that the organic should be the act of the people, the statute the act of their representatives. But as the whole people cannot conveniently assemble to legislate en masse would appoint one by both Houses of Congress a committee to report from time to time, to the people, what changes in the organic law had, in their opinion become necessary, and the people at their regular elections could adopt, or reject.

Such in my opinion is the only kind of Constitution consistent with the rights and dignity of a people who are themselves the sovereign. The sovereignty of the people differs from all others, in that it never dies, nor has a successor. Is ever living, ever active, and at all times equal to itself—there is no other party in the State with which it has to enter into covenants—it fills the whole—is itself the whole, consequently its laws, organic and statutory, are and should be, the will of the sovereign for the time being, to be changed at its pleasure.

If there ever was danger of failure in our system, it would have been because the great central idea, the capacity of the people to govern themselves was erroneous.

But after eight years of successful trial, after undergoing the severest ordeals to which the strength of government can be subjected, it still stands unshaken—stronger by its trials—wiser by its experience, surely the most skeptical must admit that a great truth underlies its foundations.

Having given my idea, as to the kind of Constitution I think the new nation should adopt, I will at another time name a few things I should like to see written in it.

NUMBER TWO.

Dear Sir: As understood and defined by "good men and true" the Constitution of the United States needs few amendments. None in the great principle it declares; none in the purpose it was designed to accomplish.

The sovereignty of the people is acknowledged in its broadest sense, all free people of the Republic are placed on the national level of equality, and even the enslaved blacks, are permitted more than half their voices.

Some amendments in its machinery only, are wanted, and these more by elimination than addition.

There being no artificial distinctions of "estates," "orders" or "tribes" among the people, the complication of "checks and balances" in the machinery of Government to keep in equipoise interests or elements supposed to be adverse and likely to encroach upon each other are wholly inapplicable to the one element acknowledged in ours. When the people collectively prescribe rules, to be observed by themselves individually, it seems to me the only machinery necessary is enough to secure their proper observance by public servants, and compel the refractory to obedience.

Yet the framers of our system fearing innovation, have in many things closely copied from the institutions of the Romans, and the mother country, and set up the State organizations as a check upon the Union, which, without it they feared would draw all power to itself, and that "consolidation" would swallow up the liberties of the people.

If personal liberty be license to do wrong, or impunity to act in violation of law through the impotence of the Government to reach, or punish, then has the intervention of the State organizations effected the object.

But if it be a guarantee from the Government to the individual in the free exercise of rights ascertained by law then the State organizations have defeated it for it has been the man who exercised the sacred right of free speech who has suffered the punishment of a criminal—impunity to the mob that inflicted it.

NUMBER THREE.

Dear Sir: From the high character and patriotism of the illustrious men who framed it and the gravity of the instrument itself we are bound to believe in the honest intention of the Constitution of the United States. Yet it is hard to reconcile this idea with the total [illegible] of the machinery in respect to those who shall wield the power of the Government at the ballot box. The Government has reserved to itself the right of making citizens of foreigners but has no power [illegible] what citizenship is most desirable the right of suffrage and it is equally important to protect its native born citizens from [illegible]. The Constitution establishes a just basis of representation in Congress and the election of the President, but by leaving the ballot to be controlled by the States, the elective officers represent only that class in the several States permitted to vote. According to the Federal basis a member of Congress say from South Carolina represents all the free people and three fifths of the slaves in his district—when in fact he has been chosen by and represents the votes, aristocracy whose feelings are not only adverse to those of the slaves, but to those of the non voting free men also.

The Constitution defines the qualifications of its elective officers, yet a man may have the qualifications required in the President or a member of Congress, and by the State laws [illegible] be refused the right to vote at any election of the people!

There being no limit to the power of the States in this respect, those holding the [illegible] that capital should own labor through it alone may in fact have established in the midst of the American Union some of the most oppressive aristocracies of the earth.

What is the power to say who shall wield the sovereignty, the [illegible] purposes of the Constitution to [illegible] and secure liberty, [illegible] while some of the States are becoming more democratic in extending the right of suffrage to the whole people, (the only way of carrying into effect the object of the Federal basis), another section of the Union has been drifting in the opposite direction and with forms the same their institutions are as unlike as it is possible for government to become even under theories most in contrast. I might urge many more facts in this connection but I have already trespassed upon your time, and must hasten the conclusion of this letter.

I saw the charred remains of a free negro, who had been burned alive, by a St. Louis mob. The State Judge charged the Grand Jury, "That if the burning had been done by a few persons, it would have been a horrid murder, but as it had been done by a large number, sanctioned by the presence of a large number of the sovereign people no crime had been committed!" An Oregon Judge who will send a man, who robs a till of ten dollars, to the penitentiary, found no authority to punish the robber of the U. S. Mails, of probably thousands, and thus it has been, the lawless will of the present few has overborne the legitimate decree of the absent many.

In no case within my knowledge has the Federal Government ever attempted to bring to trial the murderers in one State, of the innocent citizens of another State, or in any case attempted to realize its pledge that "citizens of each State shall be entitled to all the privileges and immunities of citizens in the several States." Many more facts might be stated, but I think enough has been produced to prove that the purpose of the Constitution "to establish justice," and "secure liberty," have in a great measure been defeated by the State Governments, and further, independent State legislation upon almost all subjects touching life liberty and property within their limits, has caused divisions, and fostered prejudices between the citizens of the different States, and prevented that homogeneity through which alone can we hope for the harmony, and perpetuity of the Union. What I have said relates to the powers actually granted to the States by the Constitution—having no reference to that assumption "State Sovereignty," for which no warrant is found either in the Constitution or in the theory that sovereignty is a thing of parchments.

Since its introduction in the Virginia and Kentucky resolutions of 1798-9, whether it sheltered the murderers of innocent men, nullified an act of Congress or seceded a State, it has always been the same false pretense of treason, seeking the overthrow of the Government.

While I admit the necessity of dividing a vast empire like ours, into States, or Provinces, and clothing each with the power to legislate upon its local affairs, and interests, there should be no independent executive—no divided jurisdiction. The same code of laws should govern and be in the same way administered in all parts of the Union. The officers of each State, though elected by the people of the State, should owe duty and obedience to the Federal Government and be amenable thereto, as other Federal officers. In short, I would take nothing from the State useful to its people, but leave any power with it that could be used to the prejudice of the Union.

This idea of a government based upon the sovereignty of the people, is in my mind inseparable from universal suffrage. Every member of the commonwealth, no matter of which sex, what color, or where born, if free from the tutelage imposed by the domestic relations should have the right to vote or hold office if morally and mentally qualified to do so, I say the right not the privilege, because he, or she, who obeys the laws, pays taxes or renders bodily service to the Government has a right to be heard in its administration.

But the American citizen who [illegible] the elective franchise is clothed with high duties, and grave responsibilities, and the divine injunction that binds him to "care for his own household" applies with equal force to his duty to his school-district, town, county, State, and lastly to the Union, and though the numbers increase who share his responsibilities as he rises in the political circles that surround him, yet he is as much bound morally, and should be lawfully, to discharge his duties in each relation as if the whole responsibility rested upon him alone. It should be no excuse for non-performance or neglect of public duty because thousands, or millions were equally responsible.

I should therefore require the voter to be of good moral character, that he clearly understands our system of Government, and the responsibilities he took upon himself as one of its rulers. I would bind him in an oath of fidelity to it, and to cast his vote in all cases for that man or measure that he in his judgment and his conscience believed would best promote the public good, and that in casting his vote he would not be influenced by personal friendship, or any advantage to himself individually. I would have a commission to examine and pass upon the qualifications of candidates for the right of suffrage, and those found to possess the requisite capacity, and honesty should, upon taking the required oath, receive a diploma which (until forfeited by crime) should entitle him to vote at any election held in any part of the Union where he resides, or might reside. I would require an oath, or some other form of appeal to the Deity; because I believe no one should take part in ruling this nation who denies the existence of a God or who is not bound in conscience by a belief in a state of future rewards and punishments.

I would make the examination of candidates for the diploma of citizenship as searching and impressive as possible—not a mere form but an actual test of merit. I would have the young men of our country feel that to be a citizen of this great and free nation was an honor worth contending for, and as the disappointed might again enter the lists at pleasure, it would not only greatly encourage the growth of political knowledge among the people, but have a beneficial effect upon their morals also. The only excuse I can offer for this long letter is, that my heart is very much in the matter of which it treats.

NUMBER FOUR.

Dear Sir: I do not know God's purpose in dividing mankind into races, or what agency he has used to effect it. I have wasted little of my time in the study of "uncertain sciences," and ethnology seems to me the most uncertain of the uncertain.

Speculations on the subject may be amusing, but even if certainty could be arrived at, I do not see that in dealing with it as an ethical, or political question, the course should be different, whether the races were always distinct, or they were of a common parentage, and the changes or distinctions in them had been wrought by climate and other natural causes. All we know, or need to know is, that races differing more or less from each other exist, and have existed for a long time. That they were planted in different parts of the earth and separated from each other by great natural barriers, that they would, in all probability, be still so separated were it not for the cupidity, restlessness and migratory habits of one of them—the white.

We also know the ideal of personal beauty the most powerful agent in sexual attractions is in each race physical perfection in that race. There are also peculiarities detected by the other senses besides that of sight that may be attractive in persons of the same race, that are loathsome and repulsive to a different race.

These differences produce antipathy between the races—strongest where the contrast is greatest—strong enough in all cases where not overcome by close contact and association, to prevent amalgamation. The white man and the negro are opposite extremes of the races of man. In color, shape and features, the negro is a violent contrast to the white man's ideal of beauty; the odor of his body is sickening and loathsome and the touch of his flesh is as disagreeable and repulsive as that of a toad or serpent.

It is only where the races have been brought in close contact, where the white and black families have lived on associated from infancy, where the white child has been nursed at the black woman's breast and while he receives from her the maternal care and nourishment he becomes familiar with her otherwise obnoxious features and fetid odor and thus having lost the natural instincts that guard his race, even with a negress indulge his vitiated appetites. I believe the same process would conquer the repugnance man has for the brute.

But because the negro belongs to a different race he is none the less a man or less entitled to all the rights of manhood. It was the cupidity of our ancestors that broke over the barriers nature had placed between him and us, and slavery made him a member of our families and in a great degree removed our repugnance to his person. He has been brought away from his native land and reduced to slavery acts equally violent and unjust and as a nation we are bound by the principles of eternal justice to restore to him all the rights we have taken away. We must place him where he may enjoy civil rights in communities of his own race, and if we retain him among us, for our own good as well as his we must make him like Onesimus "a brother and an equal."

But it is not among the rights he is entitled to, that his sons shall marry our daughters, or that our sons shall marry his; a Power higher than man's has forbidden such connection, and man must respect his decrees or suffer the penalty.

As a farmer I have learned that pure breeds of animals, and pure seeds of vegetables, under favorable circumstances always improve, while the mongrel and mixture under all circumstances retrograde.

Even in the same race where marriages are contracted not in obedience to that animal attraction, called love between the sexes, they are almost sure to result badly to the parties and their progeny.

I am therefore fully convinced, it would be better for both whites and blacks, that they live in separate communities, that the negro like the Indian, be assigned his place, dwell in it, and be allowed to work out the problem of his own civilization—but if we live together a wall of law should supply the place of a natural boundary; and intermarriage [illegible] between the races should be punished as a crime against nature.

I have not troubled myself much about the future of the negro, with his disabilities are removed; God is just to all his creatures, what he denies them in one way, he compensates in others. I have not found negroes much inferior intellectually to white men in like circumstances, and what he lacks in brain is made up to him in heart. He is warm in his affections, faithful in his friendships and true to his promises. And as intellect is not the birthright of any race or people, if negroes remain among us I have no doubt they will be found in the high as well as the humble walks of life, and if marriage between the races is forbidden, there will be an end of all the claptrap about his social relation. This is all I have to say about reconstruction.

The Northern Pacific Railroad—Shall it be Commenced on the Columbia?

By an act of Congress, approved July 2d, 1864 certain persons, including Ainsworth, Humason Corbett, and Failing, of Oregon, were declared a body corporate, by the name of the "Northern Pacific Railroad Company" The act authorizes the corporation to construct and maintain a rail road and telegraph line within the territory of the United States, from a point on Lake Superior, in the State of Minnesota or Wisconsin on the most eligible route, north of the forty-fifth degree of north latitude to some point on Puget Sound, with a branch via the Columbia river to a point at or near Portland, Oregon. The act grants to the corporation twenty alternate sections per mile of the public land on either side of the road The grant of land is to be made whenever twenty five consecutive miles of any portion of the road and telegraph are completed. The corporation are required to commence the work on the road by the 2d of July, 1866, and to complete not less than fifty miles per annum, and to complete the whole road by the 4th of July 1876

After some delay, it is now understood that the company have organized and intend in good faith to commence the prosecution of this gigantic enterprise

Boston and Chicago are the principal commercial and moneyed centres on the other side which have taken hold of the project, and seem disposed to put it through. The principal business offering to this line of road, at present, in the interior, is that of Montana Territory and the Upper Columbia or Big Bend and Kootenai mines. The corporation are at liberty to commence at either terminus or the middle of the route, or all of them.

To commence at the eastern end and work west would involve the construction of two thirds of the whole line, and years of delay, before the road could be useful or remunerative. The navigation of the Columbia is now practically established from the Pacific ocean to White Bluffs, about 300 miles in an air line, and a little north of midway between the 46th and 47th parallels of north latitude. From there to Pan d'Oreille lake is a distance of about 100 miles north and 150 miles east Over this distance the railroad can be built upon quite a direct line, without encountering any serious obstacles. Once upon the lake, there is good navigation for sixty miles further east. Then we are within 150 miles of the heart of the Montana mining district, with a feasible route for a wagon road the latter half of the distance, and a fair prospect of making the other half by navigating Clark's fork of Columbia river, beyond Pan d'Oreille lake.

In view of all these facts, the Oregon Steam Navigation Company have [illegible] to send the Vice President of the Company, Mr S. G. Reed, to the East, to represent the propriety of commencing the construction of the road on this side at once. Mr Reed will leave on the next steamer, and will go fully prepared with the facts and figures to show the solid men of Boston and elsewhere, and the wise men of Washington, that the Northern Pacific Railroad ought to be commenced the coming summer, near White Bluffs on the upper Columbia, and built to Pan d'Oreille lake within a year. We commend the [illegible] and liberality of the Company in incurring this expense, and hope it may redound to their credit and profit as well as that of the country at large.

California can [illegible] the already extensive and rapidly growing trade of Montana by no other route than via the Columbia River. In view of this fact, Californians should [illegible] that it will promote their interests to give us their earnest and hearty co-operation in the enterprise

To all persons in the East with whom Mr Reed may come in contact while engaged in this mission, we want to say that his statements and opinions may be relied on. In connection with his position in the Oregon Steam Navigation Company, he has given a great deal of attention to this matter, and is prepared to speak by authority and not upon conjecture.

We suggest that any person who feels an interest in the country or this coast, and is [illegible] of any reliable information or matured opinions upon this subject, to address Mr. Reed at this place before he leaves.

DOES A PARDON RESTORE CITIZENSHIP?—As announced by the dispatches some time ago, the question as to whether a pardon by the President restores the rights of citizenship, was undergoing discussion before the Supreme Court of the United States. The question arose upon a motion to re-admit A. H. Garland, of Arkansas, a rebel pardoned by the President, as a counsellor at the bar of the Supreme Court. In 1865 Congress passed an act requiring Attorneys to take an oath that they had not wilfully participated in the rebellion. This, Garland could not do, but claimed that under the pardon of the President, all his disabilities were removed, and that he ought to be re-admitted to the bar. The following is a portion of the argument of Attorney General Speed against this assumption

The place held by an attorney is an office but what was the tenure when he accepted the office? Did he not know the court prescribed such rules as would deprive him of the office? The power of Congress over the qualification was known to him when he entered upon it. The decision had been made over and over again that Congress could prescribe the qualifications Offices are held at the will of the power conferring them, and the duties may from time to time be changed

There is nothing like a penalty in the law, it is a qualification, and as to whether a qualification is a penalty depends on the stand point A State may say a person under twenty one years of age shall not vote unless he possesses property qualification and this court may say a man practising at this bar must have fair character, and that he has practiced three years in the highest court of his State. He would deprecate any act which would prevent reunion, but at the same time he would desire Congress to pass such laws as would keep out of high places those who have not been faithful to their country in the past The time is coming, but we cannot say yet, that peace reigns The President has not yet so declared Those who hold office under the Government, but who went into rebellion, did not so behave as to entitle themselves to reoccupancy Was there anything in the spirit of the Constitution—was it so framed—that a pardon arrests the arm of justice? A pardon prevents the infliction of punishment, but it is not a key to enable the party to unlock the offices of the Government.

The pardon was an iron-clad so to speak for the purpose of defence The gentleman had remarked that while the pardon says the recipient shall not be punished the law of Congress says he shall be. But the President does not say that the petitioner shall practice in this court It is the party's own fault if he cannot take the oath It is simply to give assurance to the court that they will not admit to practice a party who has been in the rebellion There is in the oath a statement of a fact that the party has not been in rebellion against the United States; and so he cannot appear in this and other legal tribunals It is a fact and not a test It has been decided by authorities which he quoted; but while the pardon is a protection against all assaults from the thing done it can never be the foundation for a claim If Mr Garland's office was forfeited when he became a public enemy, is he not coming before the court with the President's pardon and making it the foundation of a claim, which thing cannot be done? It is a simple protection and not a weapon of defence—not a key by which an office can be opened

THE WEEKLY OREGONIAN

The Weekly Oregonian is published this morning [illegible] giving the latest telegraphic news from the East [illegible] California—a selection of the best articles appearing in The Daily Oregonian—full and reliable news from the Mines, and the most copious commercial information published by any paper in the State.

The average amount of reading matter in the Weekly Oregonian is double that published by any other Journal in Oregon; and in the particular of Commercial statistics and the Markets we aim to make it the more reliable, more especially in matters pertaining to Oregon interests.

Single copies 12½ cents, or $4.00 per year to any part of the United States, or British Columbia.

Recorder's Court—Hoffman J. February 2d 1866.—[illegible] Boyle, having been tried by a jury of his countrymen, and found guilty of larceny by stealing stove wood was brought into Court and received sentence. The Court deemed that the law would be vindicated in his case by fixing the lowest penalty, and accordingly sentenced the defendant to twelve days in the county jail and a fine of $25 and costs. Defendant felt relieved, according to his appearance after sentence was passed and [illegible] an officer to his future place of repose for the time being. Henry Grahamers, caught again in the act of attempting to annihilate Felix Collins [illegible] the California Restaurant, was taken into custody and arraigned for examination. Upon being found guilty of breaking the windows he was remanded to jail for the space of five days.—Sam, an Indian was put upon trial for making a raid upon the roost of a citizen's domestic fowls. The case was clear—the testimony showing conclusively that the Indian had gained access to the roost and was in actual possession of a number of the aforesaid citizen's chickens, which he had secreted in a sack carried for the purpose, and was about to decamp with his game when he was surprised, and compelled to surrender. He will receive his sentence to-day, as no man can be convicted without having six hours notice, and the Courts have recently decided that Indians are as good as white men.—John Rich, who by the way, is in fine trim to become known as Poor John, after indulging in poisy whisky [illegible] Oro Fino a short visit made brief from the [illegible] his [illegible] in that quarter—where he became [illegible] obnoxious, and was invited by Mr Lappeus to make his departure. On the street his manner was [illegible] attractive. He boasted loudly of chivalry and gave those within the hearing of his voice to understand that he was [illegible] of the boys from the mines. "Wait until I catch Jim Lappeus in them mines," says the speaker, "and I'll teach 'im what knives is for, bowie knives!" [illegible] and just at that moment his speech was [illegible] by a Policeman who walked him off to jail to await examination to-day for riotous and drunken conduct. [illegible] Magie, also violent and disorderly, and for [illegible] at Pakarati's, gave bonds for his appearance to-day.

[illegible]—The clear stillness of the open air was [illegible] at midnight in parts of this city by music discoursed by the Mechanics' Brass Band and the Turner Sing Verein, who had met together for the purpose of [illegible] complimentary visits to a few of our citizens, [illegible] night before last. The first three visits, as we are informed, were to three of Portland's newly married [illegible] Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Burman, at Arrigoni's; Mr. and Mrs L. Goodman, and Mr and Mrs Edward Kahn, at their places of residence. The families of [illegible] and Jacob Mayer, Esq., were also favored, [illegible] under obligations to the serenaders for the [illegible] music discoursed beneath our eaves [illegible] music refreshing to the [illegible] deep sleep by the sweet notes of [illegible] the soft air of moonlight as it [illegible] and is wafted across the still [illegible] one awake. We have a pre[illegible] such as greeted us upon [illegible] how much [illegible] have so lately espoused the [illegible] appreciate the favors of our musical [illegible]. We are [illegible] to return thanks to the [illegible] for these compliments, and in rendering our [illegible] would convey the same expression of [illegible] for others, and wish for the Mechanics' Band and the Turner Sing Verien much happ[illegible].

[illegible]—We are informed by parties from [illegible], that E. [illegible] (known as Ned Bridges), [illegible] native in the Washington Territory [illegible] from Walla Walla county, but now a resident of Boise [illegible], W. T., was shot last Saturday, at that place, by Mrs. Sims, wife of a hotel keeper there. It is [illegible] that Bridges was paying attention to Miss Lot[illegible] daughter of Mrs. Sims [illegible] his visits were not as [illegible] to the mother as to the daughter. Mrs. S. had [illegible] him visiting her house, and given him to understand emphatically, that his visits to her daughter must be discontinued. The particulars are not known, but the [illegible] that he persisted in his attentions to the young lady, which resulted seriously. He was shot with a small pistol, (four shooter) the ball entering his neck [illegible] in the roof of his mouth. The last heard from Bridges, he was alive and might recover.

The Very Dish.—Pakarati has it! One thousand pounds of [illegible] pigs' feet for family use, in quantities to suit [illegible], put up and for sale by Pakarati. Now any one who [illegible] with Pakarati must know [illegible] to the point [illegible] how to put up [illegible] pigs' feet for [illegible] that he [illegible] the [illegible] meal of coffee [illegible] in every [illegible] of any keeper of a chop house on the coast. His fancy [illegible] suit our palate to perfection, and for an [illegible] to the doctrines of Epicurus [illegible] the right of a local reporter, [illegible] as he has so many [illegible] opportunities to [illegible]. Fred is on hand every day and night at [illegible] First street, betw. Alder and Washington [illegible] upon [illegible].

[illegible] Big Bend.—Mr. J. [illegible] of Victoria, says the [illegible], has received an [illegible] from the Administrator of the British Columbia [illegible], in answer to the request of the Committee of the Chamber of Commerce for information [illegible] the Big Bend country and the routes thereto. Mr. [illegible] that the Government is now having a [illegible] made from the most reliable [illegible] both routes through British Columbia [illegible] copies of this map will be [illegible] and some sent to California and [illegible] gratuitous circulation. The Chamber of [illegible] as many copies as they require [illegible].

[illegible]—A[illegible] of the delegation of Representatives [illegible] from East of the [illegible] mains, were caught at Portland on their return home from the [illegible]. They are stopping about town pro[illegible] and we trust our people will use them well, as [illegible] their only [illegible]. Hon B M Sexton and Hon. Gaston [illegible] are the only ones with whom we [illegible]. Mr. Sexton we know to be a staunch Union man. Mr. McAuliff we believe to have been [illegible] through favor of the "Democracy."

[illegible] at Oregon City.—As the steamer Rival was [illegible] leaving the [illegible] City on Thursday last, [illegible] about the bells, she was run [illegible] nearby, her [illegible] knocking off a number of [illegible], one of which, in falling, struck Rufus [illegible], a boy about twelve years of age, on the head [illegible] him insensible, and fracturing the skull badly. [illegible] was immediately called and every effort made to save him, but the case was hopeless and after lying in a state of [illegible] until yesterday morning he died.

The Vancouver Mail.—Complaints reach us frequent [illegible] the delivery of the Vancouver mail. It is very often carried by, and returned from the Cascades, [illegible] times it does not reach its destination at all. Here, we are slightly interested in this matter ourselves, and with our Vancouver subscribers wish to enter a [illegible] against such [illegible]. It is worth attention from the Postal Agent, and we earnestly recommend that he investigate the matter with a view of furnishing a [illegible] for the evil.

From the Cascades.—The steamer Cascade, Capt John Wolf, returned from the Cascades last evening and reports that the middle Columbia is gorged at a point some four miles below the Dalles, which prevents the steamer running between the Dalles and the Cascades. A man arrived at the Cascades yesterday, in a small boat, who reported as above. The weather was very cold and ice was forming in the river when Capt. Wolf left for this city yesterday afternoon. No steamer will be sent up the Columbia until the weather moderates.

Up Lewis River.—Capt Kerns, of the steamer Petrel, on last Tuesday, made an ascent of Lewis river, fifteen miles from the Columbia. He was well [illegible] with the appearance of things as he viewed them from the steamer, and is settled in his convictions that there exists along Lewis river an abundance of valuable land, suited to the [illegible] of agriculture. We shall be able to speak further of the Lewis river region, when furnished with data pr[illegible].

Insane.—One of the bloody Fourteenth who was, unfortunately, hit over the head in San Francisco at the time of the troubles there, when this regiment was en route to the Department of the Columbia, goes by the [illegible] Oregon to Stockton, bereft of his reasoning faculties.

The Freedmen.—In view of the great educational re[illegible] and physical need South, and the urgent [illegible] and [illegible] opportunity for effort, the friends of the Freedmen are proposing a union meeting to be held shortly in one of our central churches. We wish them success in the good cause.

The River.—We learn from Oregon City that yesterday the river was falling at the rate of one inch an hour. This is about as fast as it came up on the late rise. In this city the water shows that the river has fallen eight feet below the highest point attained this season.

Hawaiian Consulate.—Yesterday the sign of the Hawaiian Consulate was raised over the door of Gen. John McCraken in this city. The sign is a fine specimen of workmanship from the shop of Capt. Mills.

The Weather.—Yesterday the thermometer indicated [illegible]—and from the clearness of the air, it will be a pretty hard one. The weather has been dry and growing gradually cold for some days.

Habeas Corpus.—A case of habeas corpus will be tried in Circuit Court to-day. Judge E. D. Shattuck, for the recovery of a child by its father.

[illegible] Time.—The steamer Oregon will leave her dock at 6 o'clock a. m. this morning positively for San F[illegible].

Strange Catastrophe.—The Buenos Ayres [illegible], of November 2d, mentions an extraordinary coincidence that occurred near that city by which 390 out of 2,000 head of cattle which were being driven to town and had halted during a [illegible] storm on the banks of a river, were suddenly killed by an aerolite.

The Railroad Oregon Wants

Editor Oregonian

In the House proceedings of January 10th, I notice the following

Bidwell introduced a bill granting lands to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the Central Pacific Railroad in California to Portland, Oregon, which probably will soon be reported favorably on by the Select Committee on Pacific Railroad.

It is presumed that the delegation from Oregon will fully understand the object of the above bill. It is not to build a road from some point on the Central Pacific Road to Portland, but to forestall and prevent an appropriation by Congress to aid in constructing a road from South Pass or Salt Lake City to Walla Walla. In other words it is part and parcel of that policy which has hitherto made Oregon pay tribute to the capital of San Francisco.

Less than three hundred miles of railroad will give steam communication most of the year between Salt Lake City and the ocean, via the Snake and Columbia river valleys. It is the route marked out by nature for the great Pacific highway. There is not a tunnel needed on the entire route. There is wood in abundance on the headwaters of the tributaries of the Snake, and along the Blue Mountains to furnish ties and timber for bridges. The question of fuel is settled by recent discoveries of coal in many localities along the valley of the Snake.

Gov. Lyon in his late message, has forcibly directed attention to this route. The Legislature of Idaho has incorporated a company naming several of the prominent citizens of Oregon among the corporators, to build a road from the north end of Salt Lake to the western boundary of this Territory at a point at or near Olds' Ferry, on Snake river, expecting the people of Oregon to form a corporation under the general laws to construct the road from Umatilla to Olds' Ferry.

The characteristic modesty of our people has hitherto kept us from asking aid from the General Government for this enterprise. But public attention elsewhere is being aroused, and now there is no excuse for us if we do not hereafter attend to our own interests.

1. The shortest and best route from South Pass to the Pacific is along the valleys of the Snake and Columbia rivers.
2. It will take fewer miles of road by one half to connect us with the Pacific road, either at Salt Lake or South Pass, than to tap the Central Pacific road in California.
3. By the former we secure the trade of Idaho and Montana.
4. By the latter we make Oregon tributary to San Francisco and increase the distance of travel more than 600 miles.

It will be well if our delegation in Congress understand that the project of Mr. Bidwell is inimical to our interests, and that if Congress is to aid us at all let us have the road from Salt Lake through the heart of Idaho to the Columbia river.

I add the following extract from the excellent message of the Governor of Idaho:

"After a careful series of soundings at low water it has been found that the Snake or Shoshone river can be made navigable at a nominal expense from Olds' Ferry to Salmon Falls, a distance of two hundred and fifty miles, thus making an important link in the chain of railroad communication from the north end of Great Salt Lake to Wallula via Grande Ronde Valley and Walla Walla, over the lowest pass in the Blue Mountains. With about one hundred miles of navigation on Great Salt Lake we have less than four hundred miles of railroad to build to render a branch Pacific Railroad a success, whose entrepot will be Portland, and its terminus Great Salt Lake City. This route is some five hundred miles nearer China and Japan than the trunk route through Nevada and California, and by your endorsement of the state of facts in a proper way, by memorial, it cannot fail to attract favorably the attention of Congress, that we may have the same chartered rights and Government bounty to induce its construction that has been given to other measures of a similar character. Thus the Columbia river, the natural avenue of commerce, would attract the trade of the orient as well as the occident, and form the last grand link in this truly national highway. Oregon, as well as the Territories of Montana and Washington, will be largely the gainers by its progress and completion."

STRANGER.

An Ancient Mine Discovered in Spain.—The Paris Press contains the following statements. Miners who work in the Spanish silver mine known as the "white pebble pit," belonging for a long time to the Orfila family, have just made a discovery which is alike interesting to art and archæology. While digging their subterranean walks they suddenly found themselves in passages whose origin dates from the remotest centuries. They further discovered a thorough and scientific system of mining, the implements being in such a good state of preservation that it could be determined that it was not a Roman but a Carthagenian or Phœnician mine. The hatchet, sleeves for ore, but particularly a smelting furnace and two anvils, excite the interest of engineers in the highest degree. All these articles were carefully collected, and will enable scientific examinations to be proceeded with greater exactitude than was possible after a merely superficial view.

Particular attention will be paid to the remarkable instruments and objects of art which are said to fill the niches of a rotunda in the centre of the mine. This rotunda appears to have been the spot dedicated to the gods presiding over mines. It was occupied by three statues; one sitting down, and one of half-life size, and the other two standing, and about three feet in height. These statues remind us neither of Roman nor Grecian art, but rather touch the style of that work of sculpture which was discovered in the year 1854 on the other side of the mountains and which is now being preserved in the Armoria, at Madrid, and is known as the "Carthagenian Hercules." The symbols are found on a tripod, and on a chest, which were leaning against the sides of the rotunda. Men of science were already excited by the discovery of 1854, the present one will certainly throw a new light on the study of civilization which was once very mighty, and is now almost extinct. The tools, implements and objects of art, at present, form a part of the cabinet of M. Lassery at Valladolid.

Our Dead Heroes.—The United States Naval Burial Bureau, under the charge of Brevet-Major J. M. Moore, makes the following report of deaths and burials:

The number of white soldiers that have died in Washington, D. C., from August 1st, 1861, to November 29th, 1865, is 15,412, and the number of colored soldiers is 6,826. The whole number that have died at Andersonville, Georgia, including soldiers, sailors, employees and citizens, is 12,918. The number of soldiers buried at Spottsylvania Court House and the Wilderness is 1,500; at Nashville, Tennessee, 32,000, and at Richmond, Virginia, 50,000. Of the soldiers buried in and around Washington, 4,220 are from New York, 86 from Illinois, 219 from Indiana, 782 from Michigan, 510 from Ohio and 200 from Connecticut. The number of these that died from the effect of wounds is 3,806, and 2,464 are reported to have died of typhoid fever. There are 11,285 men buried near Washington whose names and regiments are unknown. The employees of Major Moore's bureau are now engaged in exhuming the bodies of our dead defenders at the average rate of twenty per day.

Southern Pride.—We heard, recently, an amusing instance of Southern pride. A Tennessee lady was in Washington, interceding for a pardon for her rebel husband. Her application to the President was well received, and he treated her with great consideration and kindness. In speaking of her interviews with him to a friend, the lady remarked that the President was very cordial and gracious, spoke very kindly of her husband and his family, and invited her to stay at the White House while she remained in Washington. "Well," said her friend, "you accepted the President's hospitality?" "No," remarked the lady, "we never knew the Johnsons." We wonder if the President will know the Browns!—New Bedford Mercury

The memorial of George B. Upton of Boston asking Congress to take steps to force redress from England for the destruction by the pirate Alabama of his ship the Nora is published in the newspapers. This claim had been previously presented to the British Government, and refused. Among the other interesting points which it presents it will be seen that the cargo of the vessel destroyed was wholly English, and that Great Britain has, by refusing to recognize the claim, established the abominable precedent of permitting the destruction of the property of neutral Powers in the ship of a belligerent without the said property being taken into a port for condemnation.

The Gerrit Smith "Insanity" Libel.—Gerrit Smith has finally commenced his libel suit against the Chicago Tribune, laying his damages at $50,000. The suit is entered in the United States Circuit Court before Judge Drummond. Mr Smith was willing to forego the enjoyment of judicial luxuries if the Tribune would publish a retraction by himself, and most humiliating in its wording. This the Tribune plumply refused to do, preferring to fight it out in the court. The Tribune did not charge Mr Smith with assuming insanity, as has been stated, but simply said he became insane at the time named.

A correspondent of the Statesman says that the Coquille valley produces grain, fruits, vegetables, corn, grapes, tobacco, and sugar cane of excellent quality. The correspondent expresses the opinion that there are enough lands on the Coquille and tributaries for two thousand farms of a quarter section each.

But a few moments before Tom Corwin received his death-stroke from paralysis, he incidentally narrated how a friend of his received a paralytic shock twenty years before, the details of the story being strangely similar to those of the scene in which Mr. Corwin himself immediately after took so prompt and unexpected a part.

Important to Farmers.—The Treasury Department has decided that a farmer who sells the produce of his farm by traveling from house to house and disposing of the same wherever he can find a purchaser, is not under the law considered a peddler, or liable to fine for refusing to take out license as such.

Naiads and Dryads.—A classic editor says that if the Naiads were constantly bathing, he presumes from their name that the Dryads were the ones who brought them their towels.

Throat Diseases.—"We would call attention to 'Brown's Bronchial Troches.' We have found them efficacious in allaying irritation of the Throat and Bronchia, and would commend them to the attention of Public Speakers and others troubled with affections of the Throat. They are also an excellent remedy for hoarseness resulting from cold.—Congregationalist, Boston

WEEKLY REVIEW

PORTLAND, February 24, [illegible]

Since our last review but few changes have occurred in the markets, and business seems to be [illegible] as usual in consequence of the season. The only news calculated to be the most interesting is that received from the mining districts, which favor the hopes of an early and extensive spring trade. Active preparations are being made for extensive [illegible] mining in the [illegible] Day, Owyhee [illegible] and the Southern [illegible] districts further South.

Among the [illegible] known to be valuable [illegible] likely to pay well from crushing, is the Silver Bullion, and we are pleased to learn that a mill is ordered for this lodge, to come from San Francisco at an early day. We have no definite knowledge of the amount of [illegible] ration at Owyhee, but we may say that none of them have proved failures—all are attended with fair results, and the majority of them will be eminently successful. Quite a good many [illegible] needed.

The N. Y. Herald of December [illegible] past we have been hearing [illegible] mining districts of Idaho, but most of the silver [illegible] has hitherto been used in California, or employed in the China trade. A few days since however a shipment of half a ton in silver bricks was received by [illegible] in this city direct from the Owyhee mines. This [illegible] bullion is the product of [illegible] and was the accumulation of two weeks' work at the mines. It is valued at about $[illegible] an ounce, being largely impregnated with gold, making the aggregate of the shipment over $[illegible].

Wholesale and Jobbing Prices.

PORTLAND, February [illegible]

Within the past week the disposition to speculate in a number of articles in the markets of California has been the more apparent, in consequence of which prices here are stiffening materially.

Beans have changed hands in San Francisco at advanced rates, partly attributable to the light crop last year, and the speculative disposition of buyers. [illegible] be likely to rule high the coming spring.

The latest Mercantile Gazette says the speculation in coal and kerosene oils [illegible] successful. The leading holder has been a free seller during the current month at prices affording a handsome profit. Nearly 50,000 gallons have been sold since the [illegible] at [illegible] @$1 35, now held at $1 40 ℔ gallon, with free sales from second hands at highest figures. We quote [illegible] prices ranging from 1 45 to 1 47½.

Among other articles advancing we may mention cordage as being generally higher. The agents of the [illegible] local factory on the coast are now demanding [illegible] for all sizes—less their usual discount to the trade.

Domestic Produce Market.

PORTLAND, February 26, 1866.

Business in this market is dormant, there is but a small quantity of produce offered and but little demand, except for home use. We have the following concerning the movements of the California market from our latest advices by steamer. With large orders from Australia in hand, purchases of Flour, Wheat and Oats have been upon a liberal scale, both in the city and in the interior. It is difficult to ascertain, with any degree of exactness, the extent of sales made during the past eight days, but it is within bounds to say, that the bulk of 100,000 sacks of Wheat has already been secured; besides Flour and Oats to a considerable extent. Several vessels having arrived with Coal under charter for the round voyage, and requiring early dispatch, buyers for export have been compelled to pay enhanced rates. The news at hand from Australia, so far at least as made public, is of such a contradictory character that we forbear giving publicity to the same. Private letters govern the operations of shippers, and they prefer to keep their own secrets, acting with promptness in furnishing return cargoes to vessels now in port, of which there are now some eight or ten loading or under charter. Many of our prominent grain dealers are under the impression that the Australian demand is to be but transient, on the ground that, under their advices the Chile blockade is but a temporary affair, being in effect but a "paper blockade," and with the large surplus crop of Grain in the country, Chile can and will undersell us.

A good export demand exists for Oats, the supply of which being light, prices have materially advanced. Beans have been freely purchased upon speculation, and rates are decidedly higher. Potatoes being in limited supply, prices are favoring the seller. Present prospects are promising for the crops of 1866, which, with current high prices of Wheat and Oats, should encourage agriculturists to renewed efforts.

Weekly Retail Family Market.

FRIDAY, February 23, 1866.

When we consider the limited demand for our products elsewhere, we are puzzled to know why it is that good fine butter continues so scarce in the retail markets, while they are well supplied with a fair article, and of an inferior, or common article, there is an abundance.

Under the present ruling of the market there ought to be a year's supply of home butter on hand, instead of people being compelled to live on half rations. The prices certainly ought to be an inducement.

Eggs are more plentiful and prices [illegible], but we are assured that fresh eggs—first quality—are scarcely to be obtained, which is owing to the same causes that affect butter. [illegible] their stock and poultry [illegible] themselves all [illegible] poorly [illegible].

Vegetables are plenty, particularly as relates to onions and potatoes, which are much in excess of the demand.

Poultry and game are both scarce [illegible] of the former but little is to be obtained in the market.

By reference to the advertisement of J. O. Conn [illegible] First street, it will be seen that he is disposing of his stock at cost, in preference to removing it, as he intends soon to build a new store upon the premises at present occupied. We are assured that those [illegible] good article [illegible] getting it [illegible].

A VALUABLE WATER POWER For Sale.

THE SUBSCRIBER OFFERS FOR SALE A VALUABLE WATER POWER that can be worked on the Willamette Slough, three quarters of a mile south of St. Helens, at the town of Milton, generally known as the Water Power originally worked by J. H. Smith, a short distance back from the river. This Valuable Water Power can be conveyed to the bank of the river, with some 25 or 30 feet fall. The river bank is rock. The above site is at the head of the natural harbor of St. Helens, which has water sufficient for the largest class vessel in the trade to discharge or receive her cargo, and is entirely free of ice, drift or flood. The ground over which the trunk would have to be built is well adapted to the same, with inexhaustible stone quarries on the ground. As to the amount of water, the above Smith has run two sawmills abreast with less than half the head that can be had at the river. The subscriber is living on the premises, and will take pleasure in giving any gentleman all the information that may be desired, and can give a good title to the above premises. Address

THE STANDARD

AMERICAN BILLIARD TABLES!

AND COMBINATION CUSHIONS

MESSRS. PHELAN & COLLENDER

WOULD RESPECTFULLY CALL THE ATTENtion of persons wanting Billiard Tables to the great superiority of the above tables, manufactured exclusively at their establishment.

At the Billiard Congress of 1863, composed of all the first-class players of America, it was unanimously resolved that tables of our manufacture should be used at all matches for the Championship as the best and only reliable tables.

These Billiard Tables have received the unqualified approval of the best players and most competent judges, who have universally pronounced them unequaled for general excellence and durability.

Seven distinct patents for improvements in Billiard Tables have been granted to us by the United States Patent Office, and we have lately obtained a Patent from the French Government, for our improvement in Billiard Cushions.

We employ in the construction of our tables a variety of machines specially made for the purpose, by means of which we are enabled to insure a scientific and mechanical accuracy hitherto unknown in Billiard manufacture.

Having a long experience and thorough knowledge of all the appliances of Billiards and constantly on hand a large stock of the best and most thoroughly seasoned materials, we are prepared to furnish everything required in the Billiard line with unprecedented dispatch.

The eminent French Billiard Player, M. Berger, has published the following opinion:

"New York, 2d August, 1861.

"On the eve of leaving the United States, I am happy to declare to all amateurs of Billiards that, after a tour of eleven months through the principal cities, I have been enabled to judge in a satisfactory manner of the superiority of the Billiard Tables manufactured by Phelan & Collender. The system of manufacturing is so superior, that I am happy to introduce their style of cushion into France. They have united to their manufacture of American Billiard Tables that of the French Tables, of remarkable excellence and beauty. For these reasons, I am happy to make this declaration.

"BERGER, CLAUDIUS,
Prof. of Billiards, Paris."

Parties ordering from us will find our prices as low as good work can possibly be made for. We sell first class articles at a fair price, and will not make an inferior article at any price.

Orders by mail carefully and promptly executed. Illustrated Catalogues and Price Lists sent by mail. The "BILLIARD CUE," a journal published in the interest of Billiards, and containing details of all novelties, a copious record of billiard news and everything of interest to amateurs of Billiards, sent free on application.

M. E. HUGHES,

730 Montgomery St., San Francisco, Cal., is our only authorized Agent on the Pacific coast, to whom all orders should be addressed.

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,

Asthma, Croup,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS' TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION! IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.
